TOTAL NORTH COMMUNICATIONS

FROM ITS ORIGINS AS A TWO-PERSON RADIO SHOP IN 1972, Yukon's Total North Communications has grown along with the territory and today employs 20 Yukoners.

Victoria Gold's telecommunications systems supplier of choice for Eagle Gold Mine, Total North provides the project site with satellite Internet and two-way radio, structured cabling and wireless distribution. Total North keeps the mine's remote site and therefore the company, its contractors and its employees connected beyond the project location and with, as Yukoners fondly refer to, 'Outside'.

Radio communication provided by Total North is vital in keeping site personnel connected at the Eagle Gold Mine.

"Total North has a long history at Dublin Gulch and since 2009, when Victoria acquired the property, we've been extremely proud to be part of a project that is developing skills and employment opportunities for Yukoners.

Victoria is creating and providing such significant social and economic benefits to the territory and we appreciate the company's commitment to helping ensure that the success of the Eagle Gold Mine translates to success for the Yukon."

- Josh Clark, Vice President, Total North Communications

The 440-person camp is Total North's hub for communications with all areas of Eagle Gold Mine.

This success at the Eagle Gold Mine in turn, is extremely important to Total North as it allows the company to give back to Yukon causes and initiatives; including Victoria Gold's Every Student, Every Day volunteer charity to help address and improve student attendance in schools throughout the territory.

"Total North was on board with Every Student, Every Day and helping keep our Yukon students in school from the moment the volunteer organizers reached out to us in 2012 as they got this important initiative established," continues Clark. "A project like the Eagle Gold Mine affords a local company like ours the ability to look ahead and plan so that we in turn can give back to the communities in which we live and serve and develop meaningful partnerships with Yukon and Yukon First Nation partners, including Na-Cho Nyak Dun Development Corporation."

"Victoria is committed to supporting local hiring and Yukon First Nation-partnered businesses, such as Total North Communications, throughout the life of the Eagle Gold Mine," says Victoria Gold President and CEO John McConnell. "Our success contributes to their success and benefits that resonate throughout the entire territory."
