THE LOGISTICS INVOLVED IN BUILDING A MINE IN THE TERRITORY ARE VAST AND INTRICATE.

There are literally and figuratively thousands of moving parts in play as a mineral exploration project advances through development and into operations.

And, when a future mine is in construction, like Victoria Gold's Eagle Gold Project, located approximately 375 kilometres north of Whitehorse and 85 kilometres from the Mayo Airport, at times specialized transportation needs require experience, innovation, flexibility and a solution-oriented approach.

One that is continually delivered by Alkan Air Ltd., which has provided Victoria Gold with over 50 charter flights to date to ensure company personnel can get to site, and therefore to work, efficiently and safely as the company readies for its first gold pour next year.

Founded in 1977, what began as an aviation charter service with one aircraft has expanded to include a large and diverse fleet, over 100 employees and flight operation bases in Whitehorse, Nanaimo and Mayo.

"Alkan Air's roots were built in bush flying so we have the necessary infrastructure, equipment and personnel to get the Victoria Gold team, and all our mining, tourism and outfitting clients, where they need to go in a timely and most importantly, safe manner," says Alkan Air Ltd. President Wendy Tayler.

Alkan Air has also forged an important partnership with the Nacho Nyak Dun Development Corporation to help ensure that opportunities and benefits from the future Eagle Gold Mine remain in the community and extend to the First Nation's citizens.

"Although we have grown over the past four decades," continues Tayler, "our philosophy has not wavered. We work each and every day to ensure seamless service to our clients, while creating a safe, engaging and healthy work place that serves our clients' needs and that our employees are proud to be a part of."

Victoria Gold guests board Alkan Air's Dornier 228 in Whitehorse for a recent trip to Mayo to visit the Eagle Gold Project.

ABOUT VICTORIA GOLD AND THE EAGLE GOLD PROJECT

The Eagle Gold Project, currently under construction, and future gold mine is part of Victoria's 100 per cent-owned Dublin Gulch gold property located approximately 375 kilometres north of Whitehorse and 85 kilometres north, northeast of the Village of Mayo within the traditional territory of the First Nation of Na-Cho Nyak Dun. The property is accessible by road year-round and is within Yukon Energy's electrical grid.

The Eagle Gold Project has received all major permits for construction and operations, completed the Yukon Environmental and Socio-economic Assessment Board (YESAB) process and mutually created and implements the Comprehensive Cooperation and Benefits Agreement with the First Nation of Na-Cho Nyak Dun. Once in operation, the mine will be a significant economic contributor to Yukon employing 350 to 400 people.
